

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE TO THE ENLARGED EDITION.

THE first edition of the "Congregational Psalmist" was published in 1858. In 1868 fifty-three tunes were added to the book. The copious additions to the hymnody of the Church, both of Hymns and Tunes, which have since been made, necessitate a further enlargement, in order that the Churches may possess for their worship such compositions as the manifold gifts of holy men in all sections of the Church continue to supply. Finality in the provision for the Service of Song is as impossible as it were fatal. While each generation inherits what is most precious from the past, it will, so long as the Church is a living Church, bring its own contribution of fresh Hymns and Tunes—the exact expression of its own distinctive life. ✓

The revolt of hymn writers from the cramped and meagre Iambic forms, to which in England we have chiefly been restricted, is in every way a great gain to Church Song. Trochaic and other metres give variety and richness to hymns, which not only gratify the taste, and fill the imagination, but like all forms of beauty directly minister to feeling. Just now, perhaps, this diversity is in danger of becoming excessive and eccentric; but it is only a passing phase, a not unnatural reaction from stiff traditional forms. Nothing that is merely odd endures.

It is indicative, that of the hundred and seventeen additional tunes in this edition, nearly eighty are for metres, or for hymns, hitherto unprovided for in the book; provision for which has become imperative through the general acceptance which the hymns have found.

It is matter for great satisfaction that we are no longer contented to sing a hymn to any tune for which its metre may be practicable. We demand that the music shall be the best possible expression of the distinctive sentiment of the hymn. Hence some hymns of ordinary metres, demand tunes exclusively for themselves, e.g., the hymns to which the tunes 453, 469, 478, 479, and 488 are respectively set. Music is the eloquence of a hymn; and the difference of devotional inspiration between an expressive and a mere mechanical setting is very great. In the Old Psalters, as in the Choralbücher of Germany, each hymn has its own inalienable tune; and to this I hope we are returning.

The character of tune demanded by trochaic metres such as are here chiefly provided for, differs widely from the traditional iambic tune of the Old Psalters. The question, "what is a Church Tune?" is not therefore to be answered by antiquarian or ecclesiastical traditions. That is the best Church Tune which gives the most religious and devotional expression to the hymn to which it is set? Hence in this additional selection I have cared but little for traditional forms; I have not sought in Gregorian Psalters models for trochaic or anapæstic metres. Avoiding everything unseemly in character or undesirable in association, I have freely appropriated whatever seemed to give the most precise and fervent expression to the religious feeling of a hymn, and to provide for it a genuine melody, and not a mere musical phrase.

Some of the finest tunes of the Church have been derived from secular sources; the "Conditor alme" of Ambrose was a heathen offering-song. Several of the grandest of the Lutheran melodies were street ballads. Some of the most devotional airs of Handel's Oratorios were originally written for his Operas. The only legitimate or sensible test of a tune is its practical fitness.

The same principle has determined my use of the old or the new. As a rule neither great hymns nor great tunes can be written to order. They are inspirations which come as the breath of God comes—their authors know not how. The best hymnal will be that which collects the best hymns and tunes of all generations. I have sought, therefore, to procure the use of such tunes as experience has commended, rather than to provide a large number of new compositions. The conditions of effectiveness are sometimes very subtle; they can neither be forecast by genius, nor calculated from its untried products. Just as the hymns of the greatest poets have failed, while those of comparatively prosaic men have become the possession and joy of the Church—so it is with tunes.

I have not rejected excerpts and adaptations from the works of the great masters; although in their justification there is perhaps nothing theoretically to be said. Practically all depends upon the way in which they are made. All that I can say is, that those included in this collection have been made by others, in some instances by very competent authorities. I have found, not made them; and have simply been unable to resist the strong temptation to enrich worship-song by their inspiration and beauty.

When the first edition of this work was compiled, the fine old Latin, and Psalter Tunes, and the grand Chorales of Germany, were but very little known to the English Churches. One of my chief objects was to help to make them known, that their use might supersede the inferior and worthless tunes of the preceding century. To this end the book largely contributed; some of the fine Tunes and Chorales now in common use were introduced to the English Churches in it. A large proportion of the tunes added in 1868 were modern English tunes, chiefly after the old models. The present addition is of an element different from both: which has been determined chiefly by the metres of the hymns for which provision had to be made.

Objection has been taken to the old psalter form of a double note at the beginning and end of each line. In some iambic tunes this is almost essential; its advantages in enabling congregations to sing steadily rapid tunes are very great. But if in any instance, or by any congregation it be thought undesirable, nothing is easier than for the organist or choir practically to disregard it, and to sing the initial and terminal semibreves as minims. In some instances the best effect may be produced by singing two lines of a verse at one strain, in others the entire verse. In trochaic tunes the old iambic form is of course incongruous.

Diversity of opinion prevails about the use of the "Amen" at the end of hymns. Intrinsically, as a simple affirmation of assent, it must be as congruous as at the end of a prayer. There are few hymns so destitute of pious expression and aspiration as to make such assent unsuitable. It is matter of simple option. I have thought it best to provide it for those who prefer to use it, others can omit it.

The first edition of the "Congregational Psalmist" consisted of only 330 Tunes. In the Preface to that edition it is said, "In the preparation of this work I am responsible for the selection of the Tunes, for the Introductory Notices, and for the general arrangement of the book; Dr. Gauntlett's responsibility being restricted to his arrangements of the Tunes put into his hands. The same division of responsibility applies to the companion volume of Chants." Inasmuch as two considerable additions to the work, amounting to 170 Tunes, have since been made it is only right to say that for these I alone am responsible; as I am also for the substitution in later editions of new Tunes for the numbers 18, 21, 27, 45, 47, 49, 61, 64, 94, 99, 101, 113, 114, 170, 217, 222, and 264.

My grateful thanks are due alike to those who have generously given me permission to insert their compositions, and to those who have permitted me to purchase it.

For the contribution of new tunes written for this selection, I am under obligation to the Rev. J. B. Dykes, M.A., Mus. Doc., Mr. Arthur Sullivan, Mr. E. Prout, B.A., Mr. T. M. Mudie, Mr. Samuel Smith, Mr. Hancock, Mus. B.Sc., Mr. Richard Payne, Mr. A. Legge, and Mr. C. W. Poole.

And for permission to use tunes previously published, to the Rev. J. B. Dykes, M.A., Mus. Doc., Mr. Arthur Sullivan, J. Stainer, Mus. Doc., Rev. L. G. Hayne, Mus. Doc., S. S. Wesley, Mus. Doc., Mr. Arthur H. Brown, Mr. W. B. Gilbert, Mus. B.Sc., Rev. T. R. Matthews, Mr. John Gill, Mr. James Watson, Rev. R. Brown-Borthwick, Messrs. Burns and Oates, the Rev. Sir H. W. Baker, Bart., and the proprietors of "Hymns Ancient and Modern." Also to the proprietors of "Psalms and Hymns for Public Worship;" "Church Hymns and Tunes" of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, edited by Arthur Sullivan; the "Sarus Hymnal;" the "Hymnary;" the "Supplemental Hymn and Tune Book," by Rev. R. Brown-Borthwick; Mercer's "Church Hymn Book and Psalter;" Chope's "Congregational Hymn and Tune Book;" "Hymns of the Eastern Church;" "Crown of Jesus Music;" the representatives of the late Mr. Wm. Bayley; "The London Church Choir Association." &c.

If I select for the expression of special gratitude the names of the Rev. Dr. Dykes, Mr. James Watson (Messrs. Nisbet), publisher of "Psalms and Hymns for Public Worship," Mr. Arthur Sullivan, and the Rev R. Brown-Borthwick, it is because their generous kindness far exceeded any request that I should have felt at liberty to prefer, and indeed any advantage of it that I could take; although, as will be seen, I have been very largely indebted to it.

HENRY ALLON

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION OF THE COMPRESSED SCORE.

THE rapid sale of fifty-two thousand copies of the "Congregational Psalmist" is a gratifying indication of the interest felt in popular Psalmody, as well as of the adaptation of this work to meet the want which occasioned its compilation.

The object of the Editor was to render available for worshipping use the finest chorals of every age and of every section of the church. Gifts of poetry and of song have been bestowed upon every generation, and upon none, perhaps, more richly than our own. Hence the canon of Church song can never be completed; additions will continuously be made to the richness of the worship of the Church, and to the joy of its spiritual life. It were, therefore, an egregious folly and loss, either to refuse the precious inheritance of the past, or to exclude ourselves from the fresh contributions to it that from time to time are proffered. The past is commended to us by the test of successive generations, the present by contemporary form and feeling; the old that remains to us has filtered out of much that has perished, and the new that is proffered to us is doubtless destined to undergo the same process. It is simple pedantry to restrict the music of the Church to either any particular age or any particular school. Like a hymn-book, a tune-book should provide for various tastes and degrees of capacity; the ruling canon of its compilation should be, not conformity to dogmatic rules, but practical fitness for devotional use. Whatever contributes to worshipping reverence and joy—so long as it is free from incongruous associations—is both legitimate and desirable. In the “Congregational Psalmist,” both tunes and harmonies of various periods, and of various schools will be found; of the chorals of the Latin Church, from Ambrose to Luther, it contains twenty-five; from the rich choral treasures of the German Protestant Churches, ninety-five have been selected; the limited Psalmody of the French Protestant Church has furnished seven; from the English and Scottish Psalters of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, thirty-four have been taken; living composers of various churches and schools have contributed seventy-six; the rest have been gathered from various writers of the last two centuries. It is scarcely too much to say that no existing English compilation contains so large and so Catholic a representation of the worship-song of “the Holy Church throughout the world.”

The varying capacities of congregations have also been considered; while the great bulk of the tunes are such as the least advanced may use, some tunes are inserted which only the cultured can sing.

To the Catholic character of the book, to the imperishable qualities of the grand chorals which have come down to us from past generations, and to the variety of taste and capacity for which it provides, its large success is doubtless owing.

The present Edition contains fifty-three additional tunes. These are added, partly, to supply such deficiencies as the practical use of the book had revealed, partly to add some tunes of unquestionable excellence which had been overlooked, and partly, to enable the use of tunes which have appeared since this work was published, and which, from various causes have become popular. Permission to use the latter has in every instance been most readily and generously given, and is hereby most gratefully acknowledged.

HENRY ALLON.

NOTE TO SUPPLEMENT.

SINCE the completion of the "Congregational Psalmist," Supplements to several Hymnals in general use have been published. These contain an unusual number of hymns peculiar in metre, or in expression—how large their number may be inferred from the tunes necessary to provide for them. Opportunity has been taken of adding a few tunes which have become popular.

My grateful thanks are due to the following contributors of original tunes—Samuel Smith, Esq., for Allhallows, 506; Newfield, 520; Curfew, 551; Invocation, 552; Amor, 571; Lynmouth, 577. Charles Hancock, Mus. Doc., for Tranquillity, 553; Trust, 597; Adoration, 602; Consecration, 604; Sacrifice, 612. Prof. W. H. Monk, Mus. Doc., for Autumnus, 519; Shadows, 523; Benison, 607; Amor Jesu, 622. Ebenezer Prout, B.A., for Paraclete, 609. Fountain Meen, Esq., for Compassion, 537; Spencer, 581. W. C. Filby, Esq., for Sandringham, 636. J. D. Macey, Esq., for Finchley, 559. Erskine Allon, for Sunderland, 533; Caversham, 613. Also for the offer of a large number of new tunes, of which the exigencies of space and the special object of this supplement have prevented the use.

I very gratefully acknowledge permission to use copyright tunes, both to those by whom it has been generously given, and to those of whom it has been purchased—the former are distinguished by an asterisk (*).

To the * Rev. W. Pulling, and the Proprietors of "Hymns Ancient and Modern," who, with unstinted and characteristic generosity, have added to former obligations by permitting the use of Pilgrims, 504; Pax Dei, 514; Vigilate, 526; Alford, 540; Quam Dilecta, 563; Irons (Southwell), 638; Chalvey, 640; "Come unto Me," 642; Dies Iræ, 647; Laudes Domini, 648. * Messrs. Light hath arisen, we walk in its brightness	509	Sun of my soul, Thou Saviour dear	557
Lord, we sit and cry to Thee	601	Sweet the moments, rich in blessing ...	618
Mighty Quickener, Spirit blest	536	Take up thy cross, the Saviour said	531*
My God, is any hour so sweet	624	Ten thousand times ten thousand.....	540
My God, my Father, while I stray	587	The day is gently sinking to a close 570,	635
No shadows yonder!	596	The radiant morn hath passed away ...	630
Not Thy garment's hem alone	556	The Son of God goes forth to war	535
Now the labourer's task is o'er	539	The spacious firmament on high	544
O had I, my Saviour, the wings of a dove	613	The strain upraise of joy and praise,
O Jesus, I have promised	611,	Alleluia	532
O Jesus, Thou art standing	562	The voice that breathed o'er Eden	644
O Master, at Thy feet.....	548	The year is swiftly waning	620

INDEX OF TUNES AND HYMNS.

This Index is prepared for the assistance of those who are not sufficiently familiar with tunes to judge of their fitness for particular hymns. The hymns selected are those in the New Congregational Hymn Book and Supplement, and in Dr. Allen's Supplemental Hymns. The Hymns in the latter and not in the former are indicated by an asterisk.

Evening and morn-ing, Sun-set and dawn-ing, Wealth, peace, and glad-ness,
Com-fort in sad-ness, These are Thy works; all the glo-ry be Thine.
Times without num-ber, A-wake or in slum-ber, Thine eye ob-serves us, From dan-ger pre-serves us, Caus-ing Thy mer-cy up-on us to shine.

Father, O hear me! Pardon and spare me!
Quench all my terrors, blot out my errors,
That by Thine eyes they may no more be scanned.
Order my goings, direct all my doings,
As it may please Thee, retain or release me,
All I commit to Thy Fatherly hand

Griefs of God's sending, All have an ending:
Clouds may be pouring, Wind and wave roaring,
Sunshine will come when the tempest has passed.
Joys still increasing, and peace never ceasing,
Faith lost in vision, and hope in fruition:
These are the joys which I look for at last.

Thro' life's long day and death's dark night, O gen - tle Je - sus, be our Light. A - mer.

The day is gone, its hours have run,
And Thou hast taken count of all,
The scanty triumphs grace hath won,
The broken vow, the frequent fall.
Through life's long day and death's dark night,
O gentle Jesus, be our Light.
Grant us, dear Lord, from evil ways
True absolution and release;
And bless us, more than in past days,
With purity and inward peace.
Through life's long day and death's dark night,
O gentle Jesus, be our Light.
Do more than pardon; give us joy,
Sweet fear, and sober liberty,
And simple hearts without alloy,

That only long to be like Thee.
Through life's long day and death's dark night,
O gentle Jesus, be our Light.
Labour is sweet, for Thou hast toiled;
And care is light, for Thou hast cared;
Ah! never let our works be soiled
With strife, or by deceit ensnared.
Through life's long day and death's dark night,
O gentle Jesus, be our Light.
For all we love, the poor, the sad,
The sinful, unto Thee we call;
O let Thy mercy make us glad;
Thou art our Jesus, and our all.

When the weary, seeking rest, To Thy goodness flee; When the heavy la - den cast All their load on Thee; When the troubled, seeking peace, On Thy name a - ll call; When the sin - ner, seeking life, At Thy feet shall fall:

Hear, then in love, O Lord, the cry. In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.

When the worldling, sick at heart,
Lifts his soul above;
When the prodigal looks back
To his Father's love;
When the proud man from his pride,
Stoops to seek Thy face;
When the burdened brings his guilt
To Thy throne of grace:
Hear then, in love, O Lord, the cry,
In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.
When the stranger asks a home,
All his toils to end;
When the hungry craveth food,
And the poor a friend;
When the sailor on the wave
Bows the fervent knee;
When the soldier on the field
Lifts his heart to Thee:
Hear then, in love, O Lord, the cry,
In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.
When the man of toil and care
In the city crowd;
When the shepherd on the moor
Names the name of God;
When the learned and the high,

Tired of earthly fame,
Upon higher joys intent,
Name the blessed Name:
Hear then, in love, O Lord, the cry,
In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.
When the child, with grave fresh lip,
Youth, or maiden fair;
When the aged, weak and gray,
Seek Thy face in prayer;
When the widow weeps to Thee,
Sad and lone and low;
When the orphan brings to Thee
All his orphan woe:
Hear then, in love, O Lord, the cry,
In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.
When creation, in her pangs,
Heaves her heavy groan;
When Thy Salem's exiled sons
Breathe their bitter moan:
When Thy waiting, weeping church,
Looking for a home,
Sendeth up her silent sigh,
Come, Lord Jesus, come!
Hear then, in love, O Lord, the cry,
In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.

Come to God's own tem-ple, come; Raise the song of Har-vest Home!

All this world is God's own field,
Fruit unto His praise to yield;
Wheat and tares together sown,
Unto joy or sorrow grown;
First the blade, and then the ear,
Then the full corn shall appear:
Lord of Harvest, grant that we
Wholesome grain and pure may be.

For the Lord our God shall come,
And shall take His Harvest home:
From His field shall in that day
All offences purge away;

Give His angels charge at last,
In the fire the tares to cast;
But the fruitful ears to store
In His garner evermore.

Even so, Lord, quickly come
To Thy final Harvest-Home!
Gather Thou Thy people in,
Free from sorrow, free from sin;
There, for ever purified,
In Thy presence to abide;
Come, with all Thine angels, come,
Raise the glorious Harvest-Home!
